THE GOOD ROADS JUBILEE

HUNDREDS OF CARS IN THE TRIANGLE PARADE.

Fair Weather Made it Possible for Thousands to Attend Celebration. Gov. Sproul Unable to Attend.

The Good Roads Jubilee was not quite as big in automobiles as the preceding write-ups from Harrisburg indicated it was going to be, yet there were wheels of all kinds a plenty. By actual count it is stated that there were between four and five hundred cars in the procession starting at Harrisburg. Of course there were hundreds of cars at Caledonia Park before the procession reached that point. According to estimate made by officials at Caledonia Park it is estimated that 3600 automobiles were at the park. It was no trouble to park the machines and get them when wanted, the State Police attending to this job.

The jubilee as far as speakers were concerned did not turn out as big as had been announced. President Harding disappointed by not coming. Even Governor Sproul became ill and could not attend, so Lieutenant Governor Beidelman after presiding at the York dedication of World War Veterans Memorial hurried to Caledonia Park to preside as master of ceremonies.

The pageant showing the history of traveling proved a most attractive feature. State Forester Jack Williams of Caledonia, arranged the pageant and led in directing it.

There were four Conestoga wagons in the procession: One was the property of Charles Johnson, of McConellsburg; another of M. A. Lincoln Trostle, of Littlestown; another of Henry Fall, of New Franklin, and the fourth of Milton K. Burgner, resident clerk of the House of Representatives in the Capitol, and a resident of Chambersburg.

The State Department of Forestry contributed a prairie schooner.

The old stage coach used by Washington at Valley Forge was sent by the museum at Valley Forge. Another stage coach was the property of Rufus E. Garrett, of Lewistown, and the third belonged to Adam Wolfe of Lysville.

A two-wheeled gig, or "One Hoss Shay," made famous in American history and tradition by the poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes, was, in line, contributed by the museum of the West Chester Normal School.

Mahlon Haines, of York, sent an old ox-cart and a yoke of oxen, as well as a carriage manufactured in Virginia in 1852, and another, made in the same state, in 1860.

An old carriage was in the parade, the possession of the Moorland estate of Carlisle. The coachman, who has been in the family fifty years, stated that he drove the carriage thirty-five years and that it was not new when he entered the service of the family.

Other carriages were the properties of Moorhead C. Kennedy, Chambersburg, a vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and of the Cameron family of Harrisburg. The old Chambers carriages, from Chambersburg, occupied an honored position in the procession.

A Berlin coach, dated to 1858, was contributed by John Dillon, of Buchanan Valley.

An old-fashioned saddle, used for "riding double," was offered for use by the Pennsylvania Museum, Philadelphia.

The episodes in the pageant displaying the progress of methods of traveling were as follows:

Indians on ponies.

Indians returning from the hunt. The "original settlers" on horseback and on foot, with their dogs and a carcass of a deer on Indian drag.

Trappers and Indian traders. The trappers with their pack-horses shown in buckskin garments.

Scotch-Irish seeking home in the wilderness in 1740, accompanied by their wives, children, oxen and livestock. A piper in Highland costume played his bag-pipes.

"Old Mother Cumberland Sends Her Sons to the French and Indian Wars." In this episode were shown squads of riflemen, sharpshooters and yeomanry.

"Peace on the Frontier." Germans, Jesuits and Quakers arrive in Cumberland Valley.

Pack horses carrying freight through the Cumberland Valley to the Ohio country.

President Washington arrives during the Whisky Rebellion. He was escorted by Alexander Hamilton.

Gentlemen and their ladies on the way to Bedford Springs in 1800. In this episode ancient horse-drawn vehicles of several kinds were shown including coaches, gigs and chaises. Postillions and outriders accompanied the party. Girls from Wilson College were featured in this episode.

Old Conestoga wagons.

A Concord stage coach on the way from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh.

Pony express riders delivering the mails.

Carriages of the period 1830-1840: droves of cattle, hay wagons, etc. This episode included the vehicles used prior to the canal period.

The founding of Wilson College.

Charcoal teams on the way to Caledonia Furnace.

The movie men were on hand at the park and caught pictures of the pageant.

The procession from Harrisburg was greeted at York Springs by the school children, waving flags and cheering the cars as they passed.

At Gettysburg all the school children joined in welcoming the jubilee procession. The children were assembled in a line beginning on the first square of Carlisle street and passed through the Square and for a block and a half on Chambersburg street and those riding in the stream of automobiles were given a continuous ovation of waving flags and cheers.

While the bigness of the celebration was overdone by the advance agents, yet the day was fine, the good roads were there and a crowd of perhaps 30,000 enjoyed them and the day proved a memorable occasion.

Barbehenn, of Orrtanna, announce the marriage of their daughter, Kathryn, to George Rightmyer, of Reading, at the parsonage of the First Lutheran Church, Carlisle, by Rev. Dr. A. R. Steck, Sept. 28. Following the ceremony the couple left on a short wedding trip after which they will reside at the home of the bride's parents. The bridegroom is employed by the Hanover Steam Laundry and the bride at the silk mill of same place.

Stough-Trimmer.—Geo. E. Stough, of Taxville, and Miss Purden May Trimmer, of York, formerly of East Berlin, were married Oct. 1, by Rev. J. A. Long, pastor of the First Church of the Brethren, York. They were attended by Harry Ball, brother of the bride, and Miss Rosella Wagman, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Wagman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wagman, of Dallastown, and the bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ball, of Felton, formerly of near Gettysburg. They will reside at the home of the bride until spring when they will move into their newly built home in Dallastown, where Mr. Wagman is employed as a carpenter.

Shank-Kennedy.—Wm. D. Shank, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Shank, of New Chester, and Miss Goldie E. Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Kennedy, of Tyrone township, were married last Saturday by the Rev. Dr. T. C. Billheimer, of Gettysburg. Mr. Shank teaches school in New Chester.

Ex-Soldier Case Given Rehearing.

Through the untiring efforts of the Home Service Department of the local Red Cross, the case of John Perkins, ex-service man of this place, has been granted a hearing before the Federal Health Board at New York City. Mr. Perkins is an overseas veteran and as the result of injury is totally disabled. The Red Cross obtained compensation for him and later without explanation the amount was reduced to that given for a ten per cent disability. Since that time the local office has been endeavoring to have his case given a more thorough hearing by the U. S. Federal Health Board, and this was accomplished when Miss Margaret MacMillan received word that she should bring Mr. Perkins before that board on Friday. Mr. Perkins and family reside in the Young property on Steinwehr avenue.

OUTRAGE IN THE MOUNTAIN

GIRLS ATTACKED IN MT. CARMEL SECTION NEAR ORRTANNA

State Police Are on Trail of Villain and Everything Will Be Done to Land Him.

A dastardly outrage was committed in the county last week and the villain is still at large. On Wednesday afternoon Miss Margaret Vance, a Gettysburg High School girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vance, living above Orrtanna, went to the mail box to get the mail and a man stepped out from behind some bushes and grabbed her. She screamed loudly and her assailant let go of her and fled.

Next day, about six o'clock Thursday evening, Miss Pauline Naugle, living not far from the Vance home, the eighteen year old daughter of Edward Naugle, the well known store keeper at Mt. Carmel, and sister of Ivan G. Naugle, proprietor of the Baltimore street store, was attacked by the same man within several hundred yards of her home but out of sight of the buildings. The two girls in their description of the man agree that he was tall, weighing about 170 pounds and wearing a brown slouch hat and had a red bandana handkerchief as a mask across his face.

The villain approached Miss Naugle displaying a revolver with the threat "If you scream I'll kill you." She started to run and was caught and overcome by her assailant. She remembers little afterwards, until the assailant disappeared, and she reached her home in a hysterical condition. There were delays in getting her story to the State Police of six hours.

Sergeant Santee and Privates Leggo and Hunter immediately got busy. A brown felt hat, a pair of overalls and a rag believed to have been used as a mask were found and are in the possession of the State Police and it has been discovered that these articles were stolen from the wash house of a neighbor. The neighborhood has been combed for further light and while the State Police have little to say, the impression prevails that the outrage was not the work of a stranger but of a resident of the neighborhood. Both the girls say that they did not recognize the voice of the man, who said to Miss Vance, "All right, I'll get you"; and to Miss Naugle, "If you scream I'll kill you."

The community in which the outrage took place was thrown into a fearful state of excitement and many citizens gave the State Police help in searching the mountains, but as yet no one has been caught or arrested.

Fatal Auto Accident.

Last Friday afternoon a fatal auto accident took place on the Abbottstown pike, about four miles from Hanover. Charles Canter, 36 years old, of New York City, was driving the car and other occupants were Wm. N. Leschey, of Hanover, and Henry Voice, of New York City. They had started for York to make connections with a train for New York City. The motor car, a new Nash sedan, had been driven over Luckenbaugh's hill and was descending when the storm broke suddenly, a deluge of rain accompanied by a terrific gale. As described by Mr. Leschey the car skidded and the wind entering the open windows appeared to pull at the top and with the push of the wind at the back the car appeared to leave the road, and sliding and slipping, whirled down the hill, over a bank at the foot, turned completely around and brought up sharply. The car was a complete wreck. The top was torn off, windows smashed, one entire side torn away, windshield shattered and hood and running boards smashed. From the point where it first started to leave the road to the spot in the field where it was brought up, the machine covered probably 200 feet. A bank by the roadside was hurled and the machine was faced in a direction opposite to that in which it started.

The occupants were thrown out. Mr. Canter landed in a sitting position, then toppled over, dying instantly from a broken neck. The other two men seemed to have escaped without serious injury. Mr. Canter leaves a widow and two children living in Manhattan.

Trustee of Mothers' Fund Appointed.

One of the last acts of Governor Sproul in September was the appointment of Mrs. Clara Rebert, of Cashtown, to be a member of the board of trustees to administer the Mothers' Assistance Fund in Adams county. Mrs. Rebert had been a member of the board but dropped out during the difficulties of traveling on the Lincoln Highway in the past year and a half.

The trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund met in regular monthly session on Wednesday of this week, the full board now being Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean chairman; Mrs. Wm. Himes, of New Oxford, vice chairman; Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. D. P. McPherson, of Gettysburg; Mrs. E. D. Buckey, of Littlestown; Mrs. Wm. S. Adams, of Peach Glen, and Mrs. Clara Rebert, of Cashtown.

STATE POLICE TOURNAMENT.

Men from Five Troops to Take Part in Events.

At least seventy-five of the Pennsylvania State Police, representing the pick of the five troops will take part in the first annual Tournament Day to be held at Harrisburg, on Wednesday, Oct. 12. The Governors of half a dozen States and state police officials of Canada, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, will be present. It will be the first meet of its kind ever staged in the East and promises a repetition of horsemanship feats that date from the old Roman days to the present time.

Included in the program will be both feats of skill and strength. Roman racing, broad sword contests, mounted tug-of-war, bareback wrestling, fancy mounted drills and a 100-yard race between a trooper on foot, one mounted and one riding a motorcycle will be some of the features.

Ten troopers who have rendered unusually meritorious service during the year will receive citations from Governor Sproul at that time. Disregard of personal safety is part of a trooper's duty but the men who will receive citations have disregarded it in more than the usual way. At the same time the Governor will present a standard to the troop having the best marksmanship record.

The meet next Wednesday will be the first opportunity given the people of the State to see at one time troopers from at least half a dozen other States and compare them with their own. In addition to the troopers from Eastern States a squad of Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be present, dressed in duty uniforms—red coats and blue pants. It will be the first time many people of the State will have a chance to see them in real life and not in the pages of James Oliver Curwood and Rex Beach.

The majority of the larger road projects will be open by that date so that all good roads will lead to Harrisburg, on Columbus Day. The Island Playground has been made ready for the different events and seating accommodations have been secured for 25,000 people.

Troop meets in each of the five units have become a yearly affair and have attracted people from miles around their headquarters. Representatives of the five troops however have never before met in a common competition and the event this year will be made a standard for other annual tournament days.

The expenses of the tournament are being underwritten by prominent Harrisburg businessmen and the proceeds are to be turned over by the State Police Tournament Committee to charity. The general admission is to be $1.00, with reserved or box seats at $1.50 and $2.00. Reservation can be made by writing to the Tournament Committee, Post Office Box 126, Harrisburg, and enclosing check or Money Order for tickets desired.

Jubilee When Lights Are Turned On.

On Saturday evening, Oct. 1st, our neighboring town of East Berlin turned out to celebrate a progressive step in their community development, when the current was turned on for the first time through the new electric lighting system of the borough. The eleven mile line connecting with the trunk line of the Cumberland Valley Light and Power Company at Franklintown was completed that day.

A large crowd gathered for the occasion and promptly at seven o'clock the twenty-two street lights were turned on, illuminating the town from end to end. Immediately following this the parade took place headed by the Dillsburg Band, officials of the Light Company, the eleven men who guaranteed the sale of $17,000 worth of bonds to insure the company extending their line to East Berlin and Abbottstown, school children, firemen, Red Men, East Berlin Band and a number of masqueraders in fancy costumes. D. W. Sunday was chief marshal and several State Policemen assisted.

The new company is composed of P. C. Smith, President; E. B. Lau, D. A. March, Secretaries; U. L. Glatfelter, P. P. Lerew, C. C. Spangler, Dr. E. Egin, W. A. Graybill, of East Berlin; and W. P. Baker, Dr. T. C. Miller, F. K. Hafer, E. E. Jacobs, S. J. Diehl, Geo. W. Baker, and C. F. Myers, of Abbottstown, directors.

American Tariff Laws.

In order to have a clear conception of tariff laws which have been written on the statute books of our country, consider the chief tariff laws by name in order of their enactment.

The high protective tariff of 1828, called by its opponents "the tariff of abominations," which led to the nullification movement.

The tariff of 1833, known as the compromise tariff, introduced as a compromise measure by Henry Clay, which provided for a graduated reduction of the duties year by year until 1842 when they should stand at 20 per cent as a horizontal rate.

The Walker tariff of 1846, framed by Robert J. Walker, then Secretary of the Treasury, which modified the protective duties and grouped articles into various schedules at different rates, all the articles in each paying at the same rate.

The Morrill act of 1861, which increased tariff rates for war purposes.

The McKinley act of 1890, which raised duties to a high point.

The Wilson act of 1894, which had lowered duties in many lines from those imposed by the McKinley act.

The Dingley Act of 1897, which was a protective tariff act, which raised duties higher than they were under the McKinley Act.

The Payne-Aldrich Act of 1909, which brought about a political revolution and defeated the Republican Party, which was responsible for its enactment.

The Underwood tariff act of 1913, in which there were substantial reductions in a large number of tariff duties.

The pending bill, which is known as the Fordney bill and carries a higher rate of protective tariff duties than any tariff bill ever considered by the American Congress, and benefiting the very rich.

Oct. 10 Fire Protection Day.

People of Pennsylvania have been called upon by Governor Sproul to observe Oct. 10 as Fire Protection Day, the Governor laying emphasis upon the importance of systematic instruction in schools as a part of the observance. In his proclamation the Governor says:

"The increasing and needless destruction of our country's resources by preventable fire is a challenge to our future prosperity. In spite of our costly experiences of ruinous conflagrations during the last half century and our present great need of conservation, the burning up of our created wealth, with attendant heavy loss of life, goes on apparently unchecked.

"Over $1,416,000,000 of our resources were destroyed by fire in the five years from 1915 to 1919 inclusive. Excepting for the year of the San Francisco catastrophe, 1920 witnessed the greatest year's loss we have ever suffered, with a total of $500,000,000. But greater than this penalty is the loss of human lives. Approximately 15,000 persons, mostly women and children, are burned to death in the United States each year, and a still larger number are seriously injured.

"The prevention of this sinful waste is unquestionably one of the high duties of citizenship. It affects the welfare of each one of us and the future greatness of America.

"Therefore, I, William Cameron Sproul, Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, by the authority in me vested, do designate and proclaim Monday, October 10, 1921, as Fire Prevention Day and I urge every citizen of this State to take an active part in making this day and period of practical value to that end. I trust that the proper public departments, in co-operation with Chambers of Commerce and other organizations may plan such instructive and educational exercises as shall impress the public mind with the purposes of this day's observance. I urge the promotion in our schools of systematic instruction in fire prevention constant observance of the ordinary precautions that safeguard us from fire, and orderliness in home and community."

As each home is built, the contractor is careful to select certain locks for the various doors, catches are placed on windows, and the house made secure against intruders.

You pay a certain amount of taxes for police to protect you against burglars. When something is stolen from your home there is still a chance that the police may recover the stolen articles.

But what about a fire? When your home is destroyed by fire, if you have been thoughtful, you collect on your insurance policy—but what company can pay for heirlooms and other priceless articles, possibly held in your family for years? By what magic can those valuable papers be replaced? Who can bring back to life those children that died from burns? What is the answer?

Just as you have provided against burglars by placing locks on your doors, you should provide also against fire by placing a small extinguisher in your home and then go further. Stop the careless habits that cause fire. Remove the rubbish about the home. See that electric wiring is in good condition. Clean up that attic that you started to do last year. Teach your children how to prevent fire and how to use the extinguisher you have placed in a convenient place easy to reach in case of fire.

Practicing fire prevention is an invaluable protection.

1921 Grain Crop Larger Than 1920.

Phenomenal heat accumulation which has marked weather conditions all over the Northern hemisphere this year, has produced equally remarkable and erratic outputs of agricultural crops, according to summaries of American and foreign production compiled for and by the Agricultural Department and given out this month.

The world's bread crop is abundant in spite of drought and heat throughout the growing season. The world wheat crop, judging from indications on Sept. 30, will be 157,000,000 bushels larger than in 1920.

By another freak the world's fruit crops met havoc from cold in a season which has set new records everywhere for solar heat. Early in February the sun got at its work of bringing Spring weeks in advance of normal, and trees and shrubs responded by budding out and finally coming into flower and bloom by March in nearly all areas where fruit is grown.

Frosts came and this year the United States will produce about 100,000,000 bushels of apples, against 244,000,000 bushels in 1920. Only the orchards of the Pacific Coast, Northern New England and Northern New York escaped.

CAPTAINS OF LABOR AND CAPITAL

Women Should Never Drown.

"Women should never drown," said Fred C. Mills, Director of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps for the Atlantic Division, in a recent interview. "I am basing my statement on experience in teaching swimming and life saving since 1907 and never in those years have I found a woman that would not float comfortably without moving their hands or feet. There may be exceptions but they are sure rare.

"Women go down only because they raise their hands out of water," he continued. "You often read in the papers that some person was seen to throw up his hands suddenly and go down. There is the whole story. Up hands, down head. The most buoyant non-swimmer cannot take both hands out of the water at once and keep afloat unless they are experienced swimmers and tread water.

"Men are not nearly as buoyant as women, due to heavier bones and muscles and less fatty tissues. I judge however, that from fifty to sixty per cent of all men can float if they keep their hands at their sides, put their heads back as far as possible and breathe deeply. It is an error for anyone to attempt to float in a perfectly horizontal position. Few can do it. Everyone has a balance position and for many this is perfectly erect.

"It is a popular but far from correct idea that drowning persons come up three times. They may come up a dozen times—if they inhale each time they come up, or they may never come up—if they inhale as they go down.

"In floating, breathe deeply, hold as long as possible, exhale and inhale quickly through the mouth. If you fall overboard and cannot swim and want to reach shore, take a lesson from your four footed friends, reach out (not up) and pull yourself ashore, but if you want to go to Heaven, reach up for Heaven and you'll go there—by way of the bottom."

Gettysburg College to Help Teachers.

According to the new school laws passed by the last State legislature no person may be employed in any public school in the State of Pennsylvania after Sept. 1, 1927, who has not graduated from an approved college, or university, or an approved state normal school, or who does not furnish evidence of equivalent education. Provision has so far been made for summer courses of 9 weeks each in thirteen normal schools and in twelve of the colleges and universities of the state to enable those who are now teaching to obtain such further education and training as will be required to meet the standards set for 1927. During the past summer these schools have been crowded to the doors with teachers who have thus commenced to try to make up what they lack. It is easy to understand how this plan is working out when we learn that 85 teachers from Adams county alone have been pursuing such courses the past summer. It is the opinion of the educators of the state that this movement will continue to grow in intensity from year to year as 1927 approaches and that the present facilities in the state for this summer teaching will become entirely inadequate even next summer. The state educational authorities are therefore expressing the hope that additional colleges, including Gettysburg College, will arrange to open at least a 9 weeks school term next summer. It would seem that here a distinct duty to the state public school system is confronted since our college charter granted by the State explicitly states that the training of teachers was to be a particular function of this college. This matter was up for consideration at the first faculty meeting this fall and a committee of which Prof. Frank H. Kramer, Ph.D., Head of our Department of Education, is chairman, was appointed to consider this question of a summer school and submit recommendations to the faculty which may be acted upon before the December meeting of the College Board of Trustees.

1921 Christmas Seals.

Seventy-five million Christmas Seals have been secured for sale in Pennsylvania in the 1921 Seal sale this Fall. This provides an average of nine seals for the use of every resident of the State as an aid in the fight against tuberculosis.

A new departure this year is the holding by representatives of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society of a local conference to consider seal sale plans with each of the one hundred affiliated with the organization. The Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society has again established in Harrisburg State Headquarters for the Christmas Seal sale.

Outlook for Cold Weather.

It is interesting to note the opinions of various weather prognosticators on what kind of a winter is in store for us.

Keepers at the Bronx Zoo, New York, say that squirrels and other animals are storing up quantities of nuts and, from many years of observation, this surely indicates a severe winter. Last year, when the weather was mild, the animals stored scarcely any food.

Woodsmen say that fur-bearing animals have unusually heavy coats; an unfailing sign. Corn husks are said to be thicker. Wild animals like those in the Zoo appear to be busy storing food.

The goosebone prophets are at odds, some of them predicting a normal season while others say the weather will be severe.

Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully, United States Navy, is a bachelor. When the people of the Crimea fled en masse last winter before the Russian Red Butchers, thousands of children were left without parents. McCully's ship was at Sebastopol, and he picked up the six waifs shown above. He brought them to America on his ship, and has legally adopted them. They are shown going to school in Washington where Bachelor McCully has set up a home at last for himself and them.

SCHIFFMANN'S CATARRH BALM

The first monthly reports of the gasoline tax recently imposed are being made to the State Auditor General, S. S. Lewis. Given in these returns must be the amount of gasoline sold and on hand for resale. The tax so taken which is paid by the motorists, is received by the State Treasurer, Charles A. Snyder. One half of the amounts so received, reverts to the counties (semiannually), from which it comes; the other half is retained by the state. It is supposed to be used by the counties and the State for the better upkeep and construction of good roads.

JUST GOT OVER A COLD?

Look out for kidney troubles and backache. Colds overtax the kidneys and often leave them weak. For weak kidneys—well, read what a Gettysburg woman says:
Mrs. F. M. Gilbert, 26 Breckenridge St., says: "I never had any serious kidney trouble but several years ago my kidneys were out of fix when a cold settled in them. My back was rather weak, which annoyed me and made housework of any kind burdensome. It was right across my kidneys that sharp, darting pains caught me when I stooped over. It only took a little work to tire my back and very often it became lame and sore. My kidneys were not in a very healthy condition and I was not feeling well in any way. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills through reading so much about them and as my trouble was not of a serious nature, it didn't take many of Doan's Kidney Pills to drive the pains from my back and rid me of all signs of kidney complaint."

LEAF FROM LANDLADY'S BOOK

Drummer Devised Shrewd Scheme for Putting End to Series of Petty Extortions.

"Like cures like," said Speaker Ottlett, apropos of certain extortions. "Abuse may cure abuse, too."

"I once knew a drummer for a chemical firm. This drummer would visit Pottsville four or five times a year. He would arrive late in the evening at the Pottsville hotel and depart after lunch the next day. He didn't stop a full day, you see; he got no dinner; nevertheless he was always charged a full day's board."

"The extortion got on his nerves at last; so one afternoon when his bill was brought him, he took out his pad and drew up an account against the landlady for a carboy of sulphuric acid."

"Take this to Mrs. Tompkins," he said to the waiter, "and ask her if she would mind settling up at once."

"In a few minutes Mrs. Tompkins herself appeared."

"Why," she said to the drummer, "I never bought any sulphuric acid from you in my life. This bill is a mistake."

"Neither have I ever eaten any of your dinners, ma'am," said the drummer, "but you charge me for them every time I come to Pottsville."

"After that the Pottsville hotel never charged the drummer for things he hadn't had."

Has Many Famous Pictures.

In the low, old-fashioned colonial home in Cincinnati of Charles P. Taft, brother of the former President, is to be found one of the finest private collections of the old masters in this country. Little known to the public at large, the paintings that Mr. and Mrs. Taft have acquired in the last twenty years are noted in the small circle of the artistic. The collection is built around the Dutch, English and French schools. In some cases the Taft pictures are the finest examples of their authors to be seen in the United States. This is notably true, according to the late Frank Duveneck, of Frans Hals, and two of his portraits to be found there, "The Young Man of Harlem" and "The Young Woman of Harlem." There was no better judge of Hals in America than Duveneck, in the judgment of friends of the noted Cincinnati artist.—Brooklyn Eagle.

SALVAGERS DID GOOD WORK

Recovering Disabled Ships During the World War Was Matter of Highest Heroism.

Landlubbers link salvaging ships and cargoes to easy deals in treasure trove, but the skippers of the salvaging ships would tell them that salvage is sweaty and poorly paid exertion. They do not regard themselves as adventurers of romance. They are divers of seagoing ambulances. They are marine surgeons, who operate on sick or disabled craft, says the Spokane Spokesman Review.

Salvaging before the war was a matter-of-fact trade, but during the war it became a business fraught with extraordinary dangers. The maritime belligerents had to save every damaged or sunken ship that they could, and the salvager was almost as indispensable to winning the war as was the man-o-war.

At the Dardanelles five vessels were sunk near shore, and yet all were salvaged expeditiously by the Liverpool firms.

In June of 1917 the salvagers recovered four good-sized steamers in ten days that had been sunk in the English channel. They salvaged Beattie's flagship and the Britannia and the Asturias; the submarine K-13 after its crew had been submerged two and a half days; the wrecks off Ostend and Zeebrugge.

The salvaging boats had at one and the same time to act as machine shop, power house, pumping station and tug. They worked in a single spot, where they were target for every German submarine anywhere around. They showed a heroism beyond praise.

WROTE A STORY AND IS NOW RICH

This is Mrs. Olive Phillips of Los Angeles. Five years ago she was poor. Then she wrote a story that brought her a prize. With the money she bought a rural rooming house. She has prospered until now she has a great apartment hotel, and is well on the way to a fortune of a million.

Another Victory for Machinery.

From Lyons, France, comes the report that a machine has been developed for making raised embroidery in gold and silver. It is stated that the stitch is a copy of an ancient form of embroidery and gives an impression of handwork, and is also the first machine that has been successful in using the metallic thread. It is stated that the machine is the result of seven years of study, and that the results are very satisfactory.—Scientific American.
